

NATIONAL COLLEGIATE HONORS
COUNCIL

THE MEETING DR. KARDAS HAS BEEN TELLING US HE ISN'T GOING TO ANYMORE DUE TO COVID-19

WHAT IS IT?

- Founded in 1966, the National Collegiate Honors Council (NCHC) is a unique educational organization designed to support and promote undergraduate honors education.
- NCHC provides its members with resources, training opportunities and collaborative events to build and sustain honors programs and their curriculum.

MISSION

The mission of the National Collegiate Honors Council is to support and enhance the community of educational institutions, professionals, and students who participate in collegiate honors education around the world.

BASICALLY.....

- NCHC can connect you to scholarships, activities that push the boundaries of standard education, and a community of students and teachers as passionate about learning as you.

WHERE?

- The NCHC is nationally recognized all over the U.S.A. However, it also reaches out to international colleges in countries like Australia, Ecuador, Mexico, The Netherlands, Qatar, and Russia.

COMMITTEES

- NCHC Committees are for discussion and action on a variety of important topics related to honors education. The annual meetings take place at NCHC's Annual Conference .

- Topics Include:

Awards and Grants Committee	Student Activities Committee
Constitution and Bylaws Committee	Small College Committee
Diversity & Inclusion Committee	Research Committee
Finance Committee	Publications Board

EVENTS!

- The NCHC Annual Conference is being held from October 27 to October 31 at the Walt Disney World Swan and Dolphin Resort in Orlando Florida. Kathryn Thornton will be a guest speaker there. She has spent over 900 hours in space and 21 hours extravehicular activity.
